

CATARH! CATARRH! CATARRH!

What is it? How cured?
Thousands of persons suffer from catarrh of the bladder, and many of them are ignorant of the fact that it is a curable disease. It is a chronic inflammation of the bladder, and is often accompanied by other diseases of the urinary system. It is caused by a variety of causes, and is often the result of a neglected cold. It is characterized by a frequent desire to urinate, and by a discharge of urine which is often bloody and painful. It is a disease which should be treated at once, and which can be cured by the use of the Catarrh Cure.
